Stylists Life: Sourcing

Thu, 18/06/09 – 7:00 | No Comment

Sourcing takes a stylist to some really great place, making some invaluable contacts along the way. Sourcing and prepping for a shoot can take from a couple of days, to a couple of weeks depending ...

Marvelous Cmarchuska

Submitted by StyleScoop on Wednesday, 25 March 2009 One Comment

Check out the new, chic, green and sustainable line of fashion by cmarchuska, which was launched in November 2008 by designer Christine Marchuska

“All of my clothing is made domestically in New York City’s Garment District and all of the fabric used is either organic, sustainable or recycled and is sourced from Cannon Knitting Mill in Ontario. My line is sold at Kaight NYC (Manhattan), A Stone’s Throw (Madison, WI), Cow Jones Industrial (Chatham, NY), the PILATES Room (Ithaca, NY) and m.y. boutique (Binghamton, NY) as well as at seasonal trunk shows at Equinox boutiques in NYC and Los Angeles and private trunk shows by appointment” says Marchuska

You can also check out her designs online and buy from the following websites:

www.cmarchuska.com,
www.ecosumo.com and www.tonic.com

I’ve worn these featured cmarchuska dresses and they are amazing. The fabrics are luxuriously soft. The Christine dress is perfect to wear in the fall/winter because of its long sleeves...you can go bare leg or choose to pair it with tights or skinny jeans underneath. The Sylvia dress is super sexy and form fitting. It’s a super glam retro version of the LBD.
